

MINNESOTA FURS COMMUNITY FORUM

DEFINITION

The MNFurs Community Forum is a recurring monthly event where people from the broader MNFurs community can:

- step up and help out the organization in a greater capacity
- learn more about what is going on
- offer ideas, concerns, and questions to further our dialog with our community

MISSION STATEMENT

The main goal of the MNFurs Community Forum is to provide education and support for community run events. In succeeding in it's main goal, it's secondary goals are to train and nurture talent within the greater MNFurs community, and to provide interested members within our community a means to learn more about what is going on and to step up and help out the organization in a greater capacity.

The MNFCF will accomplish it's primary goal by encouraging anyone who has submitted an event using the website to:

- Attend the next MNFCF meeting to discuss their proposed event, get feedback from members of our community, and get assistance if assistance is needed.
- Attend the MNFCF meeting following their event to report on the event and get feedback from our community.

In order to accomplish it's secondary goal, the MNFCF will hold it's meetings once each month and will post the details of the date and time immediately following the prior MNFCF meeting.

- This event is public and anyone interested in attending is welcome.
- This meeting will have a secretary who will take notes and will deliver these notes to the MNFurs Secretary no later than two days following the meeting. The notes will then be published to the MNFurs website where they will be available for our community to view.
